

05 - Home Experience

Triads Future

Homepage Experience Blueprint

Version: 1.0

Status: Locked

Purpose

The homepage is not designed to explain everything.

Its purpose is to make business owners feel confident enough to continue the conversation.

The homepage should answer the visitor's biggest questions without explicitly asking them.

Instead of selling services, it should communicate understanding, expertise and trust.

Homepage Goal

The homepage exists to achieve one outcome:

Encourage qualified business owners to book a Strategy Call.

Everything else supports this objective.

The Visitor

Typical visitor:

- Business Owner
- Startup Founder
- Director
- Marketing Manager
- Operations Manager

Age:

25–60+

Most visitors are busy.

They scan before they read.

The homepage should therefore communicate quickly and clearly.

Visitor Psychology

The homepage should guide visitors through six emotional stages.

Curiosity

↓

Recognition

↓

Understanding

↓

Trust

↓

Confidence

↓

Action

Each section should move the visitor naturally to the next stage.

Homepage Story

Unlike a traditional agency website, the homepage is structured as a business story.

FAQ

Small Brand Statement

Copywriting Style

The homepage should communicate using:

Thought-provoking statements.

Business-focused language.

Editorial storytelling.

Avoid:

Marketing clichés.

Empty promises.

Question-heavy layouts.

Instead:

Lead visitors naturally toward the answer.

Mobile Experience

The mobile homepage should not simply compress the desktop design.

Principles:

Purpose-built layout.

Shorter scrolling where possible.

Readable typography.

Simple navigation.

Touch-friendly interactions.

Fast loading.

The mobile experience should feel intentionally designed.

Desktop Experience

Desktop should take advantage of additional screen space.

Use:

Visual hierarchy.

Large imagery.

Generous spacing.

Thoughtful composition.

Desktop should feel premium without unnecessary complexity.

Animation Philosophy

Animations should support communication.

Recommended:

Fade

Reveal

Slide

Parallax (minimal)

Hover

Micro interactions

Avoid:

Long loading animations.

Excessive motion.

Animation without purpose.

CTA Strategy

Primary CTA

Book a Strategy Call

Secondary CTA

View Our Work

Every section should naturally encourage movement toward the final CTA.

Homepage Success Criteria

A successful homepage allows visitors to:

Understand Triads Future.

Understand the company's approach.

Build trust.

See proof.

Feel confident.

Book a Strategy Call.

Things To Avoid

Do not:

Copy agency templates.

Overload the homepage.

Add unnecessary animations.

Use generic service cards.

Make every section about Triads Future.

Create long walls of text.

Compete for attention.

Use AI-generated layouts.

Final Homepage Principle

The homepage should never feel like a company introducing itself.

It should feel like a business partner demonstrating that it understands the visitor's challenges, has solved similar problems before, and is ready to help them grow.

If the visitor finishes the homepage thinking:

"I think these people understand my business."

Then the homepage has succeeded.
